

400 GIRL SCOUTS TO VOLUNTEER TO U. S.

Washingtonians Ready to Offer Their Services If War Is Declared.

MANY RED CROSS NURSES

Have Worked Three Years on First Aid Treatment and Bandaging.

More than 400 Girl Scouts of Washington are preparing to offer their services to the United States should war be declared on Germany.

The girls, many of whom have passed the Red Cross examination within the last week and are now full-fledged army nurses, have been working for three years on first aid treatment and bandaging. For the last six months they have been enrolled in the Red Cross first aid classes.

A large number of girls who are of a mature age, are competent automobile drivers and are willing and ready to take their place at the front with the ambulance corps. Others have had special training in the erection of camp kitchens and tents, and are prepared to help prepare food for the armies if necessary.

Show Great Proficiency.

The girls, ranging in age from fifteen to nineteen, have shown such proficiency that the Red Cross has asked that they be placed under the direction of that organization in time of war, and act as instructors to the women brought into the society without experience.

The girls have been strongly commended by the District Health Department for their knowledge of dietetics and health preservation. Should war be brought to this continent the girls will prove of especial value in signaling, having proved themselves quite competent in semaphore work.

The girls of Switzerland have been of great assistance to their country by signaling from one mountain top to another, and the Girl Scouts of Washington have been studying the methods used by these girls.

Praises Girls' Work.

A letter commending the Girl Scouts' work has been received at New York headquarters from Robert Baden Powell, international head of the Boy Scouts. The letter, dated January 18, was sent from the London office of the association. It follows:

"Dear Mrs. Low: "It is a pleasure to me to hear of the progress which the Girl Scouts are making in America, not only in their numbers and efficiency, but in the estimation of public and parents as well."

"In Great Britain and in countries like Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Germany, where educationists are on the lookout for up-to-date methods in developing character education, the movement has already won recognition for its possibilities in this direction."

Capability Shows.

"Here in Great Britain the war has shown us, as nothing else could have done, the capability of women for national service if they are only trained to it; also that there is no need for them on that account to drop their prime duties as 'home keepers' and mothers."

"Quite the opposite."

"The training of the Girl Scouts or Guides is designed to educate them (not only to instruct them) through their own initiative to develop these essential points: character, skill, service for others, and physical health."

"Their training is on the same principles as that of the Boy Scouts, which has already had success in developing efficient citizenship among boys."

Work More Important.

"But I believe that, of the two movements, that for the girls is, if anything, the more important, since it deals with the mothers of the future who will influence the future generations."

"I must congratulate you on the splendid success that has attended your efforts in starting the movement on the right lines in America. The first steps are always the most difficult, but now that your educationalists and other authorities have recognized the value of the movement your labors will be lightened and I am confident that you will receive a strong measure of support, and that the Girl Scouts will go on and flourish to an extent equal to that of their brothers, the Boy Scouts."

"Yours, sincerely,

"ROBERT BADEN POWELL."

Letter to Local Branch.

Montague Gammon, chief executive of the Girl Scouts, has sent the following letter to the local branch of the organization:

"My dear captain:

"The present prospect of a national crisis gives an unusual opportunity for scouts to serve and emphasizes the importance of the training our scout girls receive."

"The national council has sent the following telegram:

"Text of Telegram.

"Elliott Wadsworth,

"Vice Chairman,

"American Red Cross,

"Washington, D. C."

"In view of the present situation, the National Girl Scouts offer their services to the American Red Cross."

"In case of your acceptance, each troop of Girl Scouts will be notified to co-operate with the Red Cross branch. The national headquarters of the Girl Scouts, 527 Fifth avenue, New York, will be glad to receive suggestions as to how it may be most useful."

"JULIETTE LOW,

"National President."

"You are requested to comply with the above. In case there is no branch near you, communicate with us."

"In this city we are furnishing messengers, telephone and door attendants and are preparing first-aid kits."

"Very sincerely yours,

"MONTAGUE GAMMON."

HOLD GROCERIES FAIR GAME.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—In addition to the onslaughts of housewives, angered by high prices, grocery clerks here have other trouble. Two auto gunmen are going around holding them up at closing time.

WHAT IS HAPPENING IN THE SUBURBS OF THE CAPITAL

Alexandria Lodge Banquets Four Hundred Masons After Members Had Deposited Wreath On Washington's Tomb.

ALEXANDRIA, Feb. 23.—Four hundred guests were in attendance at the Masonic banquet given in the armory last evening by Alexandria Washington Lodge, No. 22, A. F. and A. M. in observance of the anniversary of Washington, who was the first worshipful master of the lodge. Seven tables, besides that occupied by the speakers, accommodated, underneath a canopy of the Stars and Stripes, the diners, who were served by the ladies of Martha Washington Chapter, No. 42, Order of the Eastern Star.

Worshipful Master W. H. Charles presided as toastmaster, and the Rev. James M. Nourse gave the invocation. Among the speakers were Grand Master Henry K. Field, of this city; Deputy Grand Master Ernest L. Cunningham, of Newport News; Gen. William Stopford, of Beverly, Mass.; Congressman A. J. Montague of Virginia, Congressman Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama, and Congressman Allen T. Treadway of Stockbridge, Mass. Music was furnished by the Lambskin Band, of Washington.

Officers elected at the final business meeting of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association yesterday afternoon were Gen. Thomas J. Shryock, of Maryland, president; James R. Johnson, of South Carolina, first vice president; James E. Dillon, of Michigan, second vice president; George L. Schoonover, of Iowa, third vice president; M. M. Johnson, of Massachusetts, fourth vice president; Lawrence H. Lee, of Alabama, secretary; John W. Cowles, of Kentucky, treasurer. The association will meet in Alexandria February 21, 1918. Members went to Mt. Vernon in the afternoon and deposited a wreath on Washington's tomb.

Nearly 200 members of Washington Masonic Centennial Lodge, No. 14, of Washington, passed through Alexandria yesterday on their way to Mount Vernon by special train, where they went for the purpose of placing a wreath on the tomb. The lodge was chartered just 100 years after Washington had been made a Mason in Fredericksburg lodge.

A reception will be given Grand Master Henry K. Field, of this city, by Martha Washington Chapter, No. 42, Order of the Eastern Star, Wednesday evening, in honor of his recent election as grand master of the State of Virginia.

Boys and girls sold artificial cherries on the streets yesterday for the benefit of the children's playgrounds for the public schools. About $55 was realized from the sale, clear of expenses.

The funeral of Mrs. Samuel G. Brent was held at her residence at 115 North Columbus street, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. W. J. Morton, pastor of Christ Church, officiated, and the interment was in St. Paul's cemetery. The pallbearers were C. C. Carlin, Dr. Arthur Snowden, Judge L. C. Barley, George Uhler, E. B. Taylor, of this city, and Dr. Wythe Cook, of Washington.

A memorial mass was celebrated yesterday morning at St. Paul's Catholic Church for members of Fitzgerald Council, No. 465, Knights of Columbus. Rev. L. F. Kelly, the chaplain of the council, was celebrant.

Potomac Lodge of Odd Fellows will confer the second degree on two candidates at a meeting this evening.

Following an annual custom, a delegation from the George Washington Birthday Association made a pilgrimage to Mt. Vernon yesterday to place a wreath on Washington's tomb. Included in the party were Harry Hammond, president of the association; E. E. Downham, W. W. Ballenger, A. D. Brockett, J. William May, Arthur Paul, Capt. William B. Smithers and Dulany Hammond. Accompany them were Roy Dodson, of Kansas City, Mo., and H. Sunderman, of Columbus, Ohio.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond has affirmed the verdict for $3,000 given in the District court here in the suit of Virginia McGuinn against the Southern railway for $25,000 for the killing of her husband on January 12, 1912.

Mrs. Roger B. Adams and Miss Louise Adams, of Rosemont, left for New York city yesterday to visit relatives.

Mrs. John Hutton Foster has gone to East Downingtown, Pa., to visit her daughter, Mrs. Jacob Edge.

NEWS OF HYATTSVILLE

Citizens Will Be Asked to Support Plan for School Athletic Field.

HYATTSVILLE, Feb. 23.—A public meeting of citizens will be called soon to consider means for the improvement of the grounds surrounding the local high school. It is the desire of those interested to prepare a suitable athletic field, especially a baseball diamond and a running track.

The special Lenten services for Emmanuel Church will be opened tonight, when the pulpit will be occupied by the rector emeritus, the Rev. W. G. Davenport, if his condition will permit. Until Easter visiting ministers will occupy the pulpit each Friday and Sunday nights.

constipated, and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store now? Eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or bother you all the next day like calomel, salts and pills. They act gently but thoroughly. Mothers should give Cascarets, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascaret any time. They are harmless and children love them.—Adv.

Get a 10 Cent Box of "Cascarets" for Your Liver and Bowels.

Tonight sure! Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive, and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick headachy,

With the Third regiment, Troop A, and Battery A scheduled to leave the Mexican border tomorrow, the Military Service Legion plans holding daily conferences from now until the boys' return to make arrangements for the soldiers' home-coming.

While the return of "our brave boys" will be the occasion of a general celebration and welcome, the Legion, a committee from the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce, and General Harvey are devoting their time and thought to two particular phases of the affair.

They are most anxious to find employment for all of the soldiers who answered the President's call on June 18, and, secondly, want to arrange a fitting celebration.

While definite plans have not yet been completed, it is understood that a night parade of all of the soldiers after the inauguration and a reception and feast at Convention Hall. Efforts will be made to have Secretary of War Baker and other prominent officials attend the affair and welcome the soldiers home. A banquet or buffet supper may be served in connection with the reception.

Brig. Gen. William E. Harvey, commanding the District militia, is co-operating energetically and enthusiastically with the Legion and others working for employment for the soldiers.

LEAVE BORDER TOMORROW

Third Infantry and Troop A Loading Trains Today.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 23.—Train sections for the homeward movement of the Third District of Columbia Infantry and Troop A have been made up and are on the railroad siding at Camp Camp.

Work of placing escort wagons aboard flat cars and loading baggage and impediments in box cars was in progress today. By night practically everything will have been stored except tents and company kitchen stoves. In the morning horses and all remaining equipment will be loaded, and shortly after noon the regiment and Troop A will assemble and march to the railroad siding to begin en-trainment.

The first train section carrying the First Battalion and headquarters company, Col. Glendie B. Young commanding, will leave at 1 o'clock. Troop A will travel with the Second Battalion and machine gun company on the second section, which is scheduled to start five minutes later. Major Wallace A. McCathran will be in command. On the third section will be the Third Battalion, commanded by Lieut. Col. Anton Stephan. It will get under way at 1:10 o'clock.

LAUDS AMERICANS ABROAD

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

Among the guests were Dr. H. C. Yarrow, Dr. H. H. Kerr, Dr. Charles W. Richardson, Peter Koetz, D. Roberts Harper, 3d, W. F. Baughman, H. A. Gardner, H. W. Blum, T. W. Sidwell, Dr. E. R. Cheyne, Dr. I. S. Hocker, G. F. Snyder, G. M. White, C. E. Haupt, Jr., J. L. Solly, L. M. Lisenring, M. Lansburgh, Dr. K. C. Corley, J. A. Nelson, A. B. Crane, J. M. Meyer, S. H. Rose, C. H. Winter, Hyland Johns, M. Prickett, Karl W. Corby, Dr. McKay, M. Evans, C. I. Corby, W. S. Betts, and Dr. Selby.

MAY GREET MILITIA WITH NIGHT PARADE

Service Legion Will Soon Decide on Fitting Welcome For Men on Border.

With the Third regiment, Troop A, and Battery A scheduled to leave the Mexican border tomorrow, the Military Service Legion plans holding daily conferences from now until the boys' return to make arrangements for the soldiers' home-coming.

While the return of "our brave boys" will be the occasion of a general celebration and welcome, the Legion, a committee from the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce, and General Harvey are devoting their time and thought to two particular phases of the affair.

They are most anxious to find employment for all of the soldiers who answered the President's call on June 18, and, secondly, want to arrange a fitting celebration.

While definite plans have not yet been completed, it is understood that a night parade of all of the soldiers after the inauguration and a reception and feast at Convention Hall. Efforts will be made to have Secretary of War Baker and other prominent officials attend the affair and welcome the soldiers home. A banquet or buffet supper may be served in connection with the reception.

Brig. Gen. William E. Harvey, commanding the District militia, is co-operating energetically and enthusiastically with the Legion and others working for employment for the soldiers.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

Among the guests were Dr. H. C. Yarrow, Dr. H. H. Kerr, Dr. Charles W. Richardson, Peter Koetz, D. Roberts Harper, 3d, W. F. Baughman, H. A. Gardner, H. W. Blum, T. W. Sidwell, Dr. E. R. Cheyne, Dr. I. S. Hocker, G. F. Snyder, G. M. White, C. E. Haupt, Jr., J. L. Solly, L. M. Lisenring, M. Lansburgh, Dr. K. C. Corley, J. A. Nelson, A. B. Crane, J. M. Meyer, S. H. Rose, C. H. Winter, Hyland Johns, M. Prickett, Karl W. Corby, Dr. McKay, M. Evans, C. I. Corby, W. S. Betts, and Dr. Selby.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

HUNT HORN STARTS LONDONERS ON RAID

Clerks in Khaki Take 120 German Prisoners and Destroy Shaft and Dugouts.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, Feb. 23.—To the hunting call blown on a tallyho bugle, clerks and stenographers, part of a London battalion, on Tuesday at dusk raided the Germans between Hill 60 and the bluff. They took 120 German soldiers and one officer, with seven machine guns, and destroyed a mine shaft and numerous dugouts in which there were several hundred men who refused to come out.

A British officer remarked today that the Londoners carried out the raid with the same methodical thoroughness that they formerly showed up a day's mail. The zigzag nature of the British line necessitated that the attackers line up on the open ground.

The "city chaps" stood calmly, merely tightening their helmets as they awaited the blast of the hunt horn, while sharpshooters from German guns were bursting about them.

At the sound of the tallyho they charged, bending in a 500-yard circle about the Germans and shaking hands at the junction point of their circle behind the enemy's line.

Their German prisoners stood agape at such incomprehensible conduct. The prisoners were all of the 15th Prussian Regiment.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self-centered," the speaker said, "but such men as the American aviators who are serving France or England have proved they are willing to die for an ideal."

Other speakers were Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy; Congressman Cragg of Pennsylvania; Albert R. Brunner, president of the National Associated University of Pennsylvania Clubs; Dr. James G. McKay, of the army medical corps, and D. Roberts Harper, toastmaster, and president of the Washington alumni.

FINANCIAL

Willing to Die for Ideal, Says Dr. Speakman.

American aviators in the service of the allies and Americans in the United States ambulance and hospital organizations at the European war front, were called the "monuments of the nation" by Dr. William C. Speakman in his address last night before the Washington alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at the University Club.

"We have been accused as a nation as being too self